Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 5-10-2006 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Claim 1 recites among other things the following: means for updating the indicia and providing, from said information storage unit, updated indicia, representative ... to emergency system. Examiner is unable to find disclosure to support this limitation in applicant's specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2614

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chavous (US PAT: 5,161,180) in view of Cook et al. (US PAT: 5,077,788, hereinafter Cook).

Regarding claim 1, Chavous discloses an emergency message processor, in a local communications network including multiple transmission sources, for providing emergency message initiator identification to an emergency system including an emergency database, comprising: an information storage unit (reads on 102, fig. 1), the local communication network, maintaining indicia (for example extension telephone number of telephone 100, fig. 1), defining multiple transmission sources, to be transmitted under emergency circumstances, implementation information to enable the indicia to be transmitted and properly routed when emergency circumstances occur, immediately upon initiation of an emergency message, an initiator for implementing transmission into the emergency system (108, fig. 1), with minimal volitional activity, of at least some of the indicia, defining transmission source implementing transmission under emergency circumstances, immediately upon initiation of an emergency message, wherein imitator precludes a need for any adjunct equipment in the emergency system which corresponds with the initiator (col. 4 lines 4-46; col. 7, line 36 – col. 8, line 11; figs. 1, 3).

Chavous differs from claimed invention in that it does not specifically teach the following: means for updating the indicia and providing, from the storage unit, updated indicia, representative of a transmission source capable of implementing transmission, to the emergency system.

However, Cook discloses system and method for processing telephone communication which teaches the following: means for updating the indicia and providing, from the storage unit, updated indicia, representative of a transmission source capable of implementing transmission, to the emergency system (col. 1 lines 11-17; col. 2, line 50 – col. 3, line 3; col. 8 lines 1-12).

Thus, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to modify Chavous' system to provide for the following: means for updating the indicia and providing, from the storage unit, updated indicia, representative of a transmission source capable of implementing transmission, to the emergency system as this arrangement would facilitate to use updated information for the handling of emergency call so that operator at PSAP has updated information about caller needing emergency assistance, thus facilitating effective response to the emergency situation.

Regarding claims 2-5, Chavous further teaches the following: processor in (102, fig. 1) interfaces with a PBX (110, fig. 1), processor comprising means for managing the PBX, processor comprising means for manipulating the indicia (such as sending required information to PSAP), means in (102, fig. 1) concurrently transmitting emergency message indicia (steps 70/72, 88 of fig. 3) to a monitoring location (108, fig. 1) proximate a transmission source experiencing the emergency circumstance (fig. 3 col. 7, line 36 – col. 8, line 11).

Response to Arguments

6. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-5 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
